

FULL DAY DISCOVER FANSIPAN MOUNTAIN 3143 METRES WITH LUNCH

Tour code: SAP
Tour type: Adventure
City: Cultural & Trekking
Time: Full day (Time: 08.30 – 17.30h)

Overview:

Climbing Fansipan, the roof of Vietnam at 3,143m above the sea level is always a great fun and accomplishment. This trip is exclusively for those who have limited time in Sapa but still want to get this incredible experience with breathtaking views. But to conquer it one day is a really challenging workout if you are not fit. So be well-prepared.

Itinerary:

6:00am your private guide will pick up from your hotel in Sa Pa to visit Silver Waterfall, drive up to the highest mountain pass in Viet Nam – Tram Ton Pass, 1,950 metres above sea level. Enjoy the natural environment before starting the challenging trek to the peak. You'll walk through primitive rainforest and jungle, traversing many small streams and passing towering Yellow Bamboo forest systems. After approximately 6 hours you will be standing on the highest peak in Viet Nam, Mt. Fansipan, known as 'the roof of Indochina'. Spend 1 hour at the summit to enjoy magnificent and inspiring views, to the northwest are small village areas and splendid rolling mountains belonging to Lai Chau province, to the northeast you will have a birds eye view of Sa Pa town which can only be seen from this vantage point. Have lunch before returning to Tram Ton Pass for transport to Sa Pa.
